Everyone Needs Retirement Planning

Most people spend time dreaming about having the financial freedom to do what they want. This freedom may provide them an opportunity to travel, a chance to develop new skills, or the option of turning an interest into a business opportunity.

Unfortunately, most people do not spend enough time preparing for the financial realities of retirement.

Americans frequently put today's pleasure ahead of their future comfort. However, many Americans have discovered that it is possible to increase their retirement savings without seriously reducing their standard of living.

This course will give you knowledge that you need to take advantage of opportunities like IRAs and 401(k) plans. You can learn how to make wise choices among various investment and insurance alternatives and how to be confident that your wishes are carried out at your death.

Obviously, financial security is a goal of retirement planning. Once your finances are in place, you may consider various leisure activities. Attending this course could be an important step toward a more satisfying retirement. We are pleased to have you here!

How Long Will You Be Retired?

People today are living longer than at any time in history. In fact, your retirement years may outnumber your working years. And your life expectancy increases as you age.

Do you have a financial strategy in place to deal with the possibility that you may live well into your 90s? Will you have enough money to be financially comfortable?

The table below shows how long an average American can expect to live.

Current Age	1941 life expectancy ¹	Current life expectancy ²
		Male	Female
Birth	62.3
40	69.3
55	72.8
70	79.0
85	88.7

Are You Ready for Retirement?

Why worry about retirement activities now when retirement is years away? If you want to develop new interests and involvements, you need to start now. Fred Astaire said, “Old age is like everything else. To make a success of it, you’ve got to start young.”

Are you prepared financially?

As life expectancies rise, your retirement years may equal your working years. Before you retire, make sure your investments are sufficient to protect your future purchasing power and to cover emergencies.

Do you love your job?

Sometimes people become so involved in their careers that retirement leaves them bored, frustrated, and alienated from many of their friends. If your career is a major part of your life, you might consider partial retirement or volunteer work.

How will you fill your time?

Use pre-retirement years to develop hobbies and interests that can help you fill your post-retirement hours.

Is your spouse ready?

Each spouse often has a daily routine, and each may be uneasy with the idea of the other spouse interrupting that routine. You and your spouse should talk about your individual expectations. The routine you develop together should provide adequate personal time for each spouse.

Where will you live?

Many people look forward to retiring and moving to a different climate. However, make sure you examine all issues regarding such a move.

Setting Goals

Goals are the starting point of all achievements. They are the visions of the mind that must occur before the creation of the reality. Born of ideas and dreams, goals inspire planning, planning leads to action, and action yields results.

These are the steps in goal setting:

1. Dream.

2. Reduce the dreams to writing.

Make them specific.

Quantify them.

Set them within a time frame.

3. Organize the dreams.

Prioritize them.

Determine a course of action.

Break the goals into subgoals.

4. Implement your action plan.

Take action.

Monitor your progress.

Adjust as needed.

5. Celebrate your accomplishments!
